 - Nativism
 - Violence
 - Legislation to curb immigration

Change in American Society

- Location: We move....
 - 1900 - America as a nation of cities
 - By about the 1980s — America as a nation of suburbs
 - City issues are different than issues of the burbs...
 - Think of any?

Change in American Society

- Effects of movement from rural areas to cities, and from cities to suburbs
 - Diminished political power for rural areas and small towns
 - Shrinking tax base for central cities
 - Central cities' dependence on federal assistance make them Democratic strongholds
 - Suburban middle-class and working-class homeowners make them Republican strongholds

Change in American Society

- Changing Jobs & Occupations
 - America went from an agrarian to an industrial to a post-industrial society
 - Political implications?
 - Demands for expanded welfare programs of all types
 - Demands for policies to encourage economic development

Change in American Society

- Changing Jobs & Occupations (con't)
 - Huge expansion of female workers
 - Sixty percent of new jobs in the 1980s were filled by women; these were primarily white-collar and service jobs
 - Participation of women in the paid workforce is about 75 percent

Change in American Society

- Changing Jobs & Occupations (con't)
 - Consequences of women in the workforce?
 - Improvement in income

 - Family Leave Act of 1993

Change in American Society

- Aging of America

- Proportion of population over age 65 is growing and proportion of population 18 – 64 is shrinking; proportion over 85 is growing rapidly
- This growing proportion of population is the most dependent on government services
- Debate over healthcare
- Financing of Social Security and Medicare
- Increasingly burdensome tax load on those still in the workforce

Change in American Society

- American Standard of Living - Income
 - America is one of the top six nations in the United Nations' Human Development index regarding education, living standards, income, and GDP
 - Stagnated from 1973 – early 1990s; took off in 1990s. This means
 - We expect steady improvement in our standard of living
 - Hostility toward taxes, immigrants, and welfare recipients

Change in American Society

- American Standard of Living – Equality
 - Disparity between rich and poor has become more pronounced
 - Mean family income stagnated and declined except for the very richest Americans
 - Three-fourths of income gains in the 1980s went to the top 20% of families; 100% of increased wealth went there too

Change in American Society

- American Standard of Living
 - Decline of the Middle Class
 - Helped defeat George H. W. Bush in the 1992 presidential election
 - Helped defeat Democrats in the midterm elections of 1994
 - Helped elect Barack Obama in 2008

Change in American Society

- American Standard of Living – Decline of the Middle Class
 - Economic boom of the 1990s saw growth for the middle class for the first time since the 1970s, so anger has abated.
 - But now?

Change in American Society

- American Standard of Living – Poverty
 - What are the characteristics of the prototypical poor person?
 - Racial minority
 - Female head of household
 - Young children

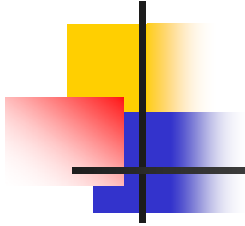

Change in American Society

- American Standard of Living – Poverty (con't)
 - Reasons for concern
 - Large number of poor

 - Poverty will increase because of current recession

Change in American Society

- American Standard of Living – Poverty (con't)
 - Political implications
 - Social problems
 - Inequality and democracy
 - In politics, money equals access
 - Lack of political efficacy on the part of the poor

The American Economy

Change in American Society

- The American Economy
 - Globalization
 - American economy rebounded in the 1990s
 - Single market and production system
 - Revolution in communications
 - Revolution in transportation
 - Revolution in the formation of global financial markets

► GLOBALIZATION

The largest American corporations are also global corporations in the sense that they produce, market, and sell their products all over the world. Here, men take a break at a Starbucks in a shopping mall in Khobar, Saudi Arabia.

Change in American Society

- The American Economy
 - The “Dreamliner” example
 - The role of sourcing
 - The role of out-sourcing
 - Polls show Americans are worried
 - Government response

 - Death of communism in Eastern Europe
 - Demise of the USSR
 - China switched to a market economy

Change in American Society

- The U.S. in the International System
 - Superpower II
 - Bipolar world is now a multi-polar world
 - New foreign policy challenges
 - What are some of these challenges?
 - Difficulty building coalitions because of America's recent policy of unilateralism

American Political Culture

Change in American Society

- We look at other nations to compare how well we are doing.
- We notice differences:
 - Constitutional—fairly obvious; can you name some?
 - Demographic: fairly obvious; can you name some?
 - Cultural: much deeper and less obvious.

Change in American Society

- Foundational Beliefs of American Political Culture
 - Foundational beliefs: those that shape how we classify, think about, and resolve issues
 - Political culture: fundamental beliefs that have political consequences

Change in American Society

- Individualism

- An individual's fate is in his/her own hands
- You are responsible for your actions and well-being
- Endorse equality of opportunity, but reject equality of results
- Not common in other westernized countries

Change in American Society

- Limited government
 - Government should be limited in its power and in its responsibilities
- Capitalism
 - Adam Smith, The Wealth of Nations
 - Capitalism versus socialism

Change in American Society

- Citizenship and the Nature of the political order
 - Our behavior is influenced by certain beliefs about what kind of political order is right and what is the role of the citizens
 - Democracy, Freedom & Liberty
 - Populism: innate distrust of the rich and the powerful

Change in American Society

- Citizenship and the Nature of the political order (con't)
 - Generational differences
 - Older: a good citizen votes, pays their taxes, obeys the law, supports the military
 - Gen X: skeptical of government and much more distrustful of government solutions
